

STARDROPS - SEPTEMBER 5 - 11, 2021

and synopsis through end of year highlights to watch for...

We have just walked through an epic moment in time where the behavior of Mars, a militant aggressive planet, has taken a course of pushing situations out into the open, which are blatantly delusional and destructive, exposing the most confusing, disappointing and undermining situations for all to see, whether in our own life situation, and/or the world.

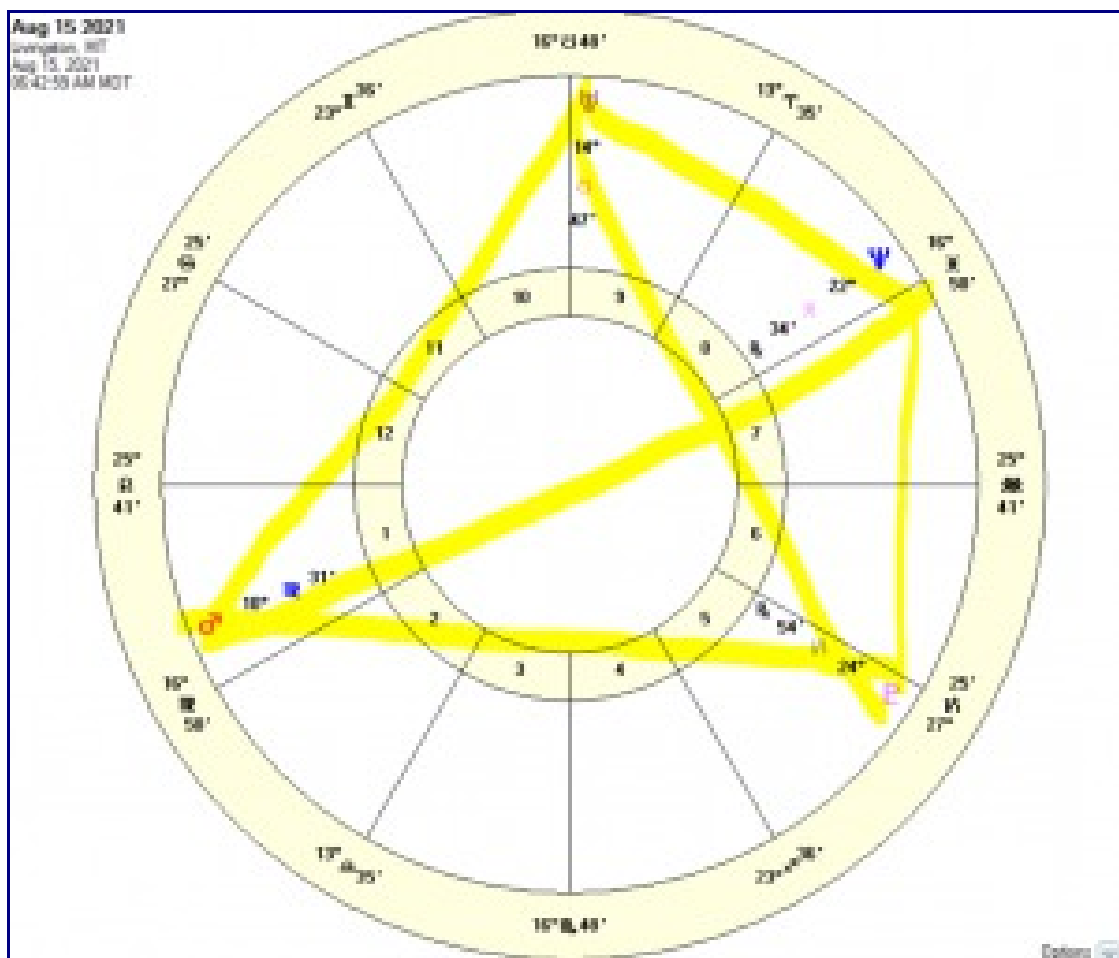

Surely the theme has been escalating for months, if not years, but this small bit of time, has pushed it to the limit.

As Mars moves forward towards a key point ( Sept 2, opposition to Neptune) it not only is the agitator triggering situations which would appear utterly unthinkable that we need to take in, but also at the same time, builds a sort of power, like an engine revving up increasing the obvious, wide open, revealing the deception or delusion, the sense of injustice, analysis and intelligent insight ( because Mars is in Virgo). This brings one to a point of determination to stop the unthinkable exhausting layering of awful drama. These two happen at the same time. The problem escalating before our eyes, which secondly triggers the power within to stop it once and for all, any way one can. We can blame some external agitator, yet we know we have ourselves to blame for turning our eyes from it for so long.

This Mars creates a sort of mental conviction taking us to the next level of decision, as we become even more aware of what is wrong with this picture.. A re-cap of the Kite Configuration in which this article is captured from, began on Aug 15 up to Sept 6, the strongest crescendo occurring up to September 2nd, 2021 is the theme of this Stardrop. Original Article of the Kite configuration can be found HERE...

The most exasperating emotion might be labeled injustice, frustration and righteous indignation and the list of sources of these frustrations would take so long to comment upon, it simply isn't practical to put them all here. Remember, these are global and some personal.

Remember, the major theme we have been in since August 15.

This theme has been for an empowerment and increase of confidence within yourself to do what you know you have to do in order to remove the destructive narrative and blob of energy either within yourself and/or outside of you that is draining your power, sabotaging the very thing you are trying to reach. The worst part of this blob, is that it has no self check, no self examination, no conscience or self reflection, no self correction - it simply appears to want to ruin our happiness behaving independently erratically as if we black out and boom - it happened again! We wake up and notice another thing has gotten out of control we must now face.

This reminder of what has been going on in the past few weeks, is so you can catch in real time, how much progress you're making by facing it, recognizing it... the blob of dysfunctional energy, dissecting its behavior and how you and the world is waking up in spite of the mess we are in. The theme is about discovering more clearly what's wrong, and deciding emphatically to remove it now. It is occurring within us, and we are also recognizing out there around us on Earth.

In the last few weeks....

#1. Our Stress might have reached a boiling point in numerous ways - taking many forms...but typically one most annoying problem ongoing....it's as if situations are stacking one upon another, upon another, layers of situations around us. Are they in the form of our own personal denials, secrets, delusions and dysfunctions from past neglect or ignoring things, and/or are they formed by others' denials, dysfunctions, delusions secretive behaviors which have built up over the years we have tolerated or ignored? Have we reached a point zero tolerance?! The Mars as the trigger of this Kite, demands balance and mental analytical assessment, the balancing of the books.

These emergencies or events are seemingly never ending exasperation - (it reminds me of those shows, where some creature keeps morphing into ever new dangers as soon as one portion of it has been stopped, another pops up even worse than the other - the opposition intensifies and no one who is in charge really knows how to kill the creature properly to end it all. Not only that, it takes watching the entire movie to discover, every obstacle appearingly unrelated each one to the other is actually coming from one source. I call this the blob.

#2. Our conviction within grows, inspiring action in order to solve the runaway problem(s). It requires extreme originality, boldness, strategic and tenacity in order to bring lasting change with one goal in mind - to bring back some form of sanity, liberation and functional security back into one's world...before the monster destroys ...everything. Possibly for some, the word Monster is a bit melodramatic for our personal affairs, yet not for the global crisis going on daily. There is a blob of darkness out there working through various dramatic disasters globally, and one within our personal life, even if it's small, we don't want it.

August 15 - Sept 2 as a peak, ongoing through the rest of the year, ending with the Last Saturn square Uranus, this is the period of time where an extreme unthinkable frustrations of events out in the world continues to occur which pushes us to the edge of extreme action to remedy it, now.

I believe the turning point for engaged with conviction to turn things around through strong action, was August 15 to September 2, 2021.

Of course, these conditions have been growing and building possibly for years! However, something happened this August which brought a new determination to speed up the solution quickly and put an end to something which has created much worry in your own personal life (and the worlds,' increasing mess) as these issues are happening simultaneously.

This can also be seen collectively on the entire planet, where extreme actions might have begun unfolding in order to recognize what needs to be done to confront the blob and dismantle it- the sense of this timing very much feels like, the last straw, or, one being pushed to the wall. Remember, this is us and collectively, humanity.

Mars pierces the Neptune elusiveness, the lying monster pretending the crisis are this or that and occurring organically, hiding in many forms, appearing unrelated, one crisis to another crisis, - by watching the pattern from a distance, the origin has been uncovered. Every crisis is coming from one source. (Mars in Virgo oppose Neptune in Pisces making fantastic supportive aspects to Pluto, Uranus and Pluto, creating pathways of original and ingenious solutions)..see kite image above.

What undermining creature, sabotaging thing you have navigated around for years is now being targeted for extermination?

This process has brought us, personally and globally more ways that we realize, to an incredible awakened awareness of intelligent education and the most logical course of action(s) to take now, in order to move into our future the way we want it to be. This might take months or years to realize this new vision come true, but will happen, now that we see and know the reality of the situation, nothing can stop you.

If you read through the August 15 Kite article, then re-read this synopsis, maybe it will resonate for you, personally, or what might be occurring in the world collectively. Use your imagination to uncover the details of your own face and conquer moments, and collectively the worlds' also.

This is one of those moments I will record in my mind for years, as one of several Epic turning points on the planet for us individually on our path towards the light.
